TWO EXCEPTIONAL WOMEN CHEFS FROM SANDOZ FOUNDATION HOTELS FEATURED ON INAUGURAL MICHELIN GUIDE PODCAST, “Oui, Cheffes!”

Sandoz Foundation Hotels is proud to announce that two of its outstanding female employees, Anne-Sophie Pic - executive chef at Pic au Beau-Rivage Palace - and Sarah Benahmed - director of La Table at Lausanne Palace - were featured on the premier launch of Michelin Guide’s new podcast, “Oui Cheffes.” (Yes, Chefs). Pic and Benahmed were two of five featured on this episode. These two exceptional women contribute to making Lausanne a must-visit gastronomical destination.

“Oui, Cheffes!” which launched on February 14th, is a series of podcasts, produced by Michelin Guide, which gives a voice to professionals in gastronomy and hospitality, and highlights the inspiring trajectories and exceptional careers of these chefs. True leaders and role models, they are shaping the future of the hospitality sector. Each episode lasts 10 to 15 minutes.

Five episodes of this first season will highlight emblematic figures in the culinary sector, including Sarah Benahmed (the only double winner of the MICHELIN Service Award) on April 11 and Anne-Sophie Pic (the most Michelin-starred female chef in the world) which aired on February 14, as well as Nadia Sammut (Auberge La Fenière), Georgiana Viou (Red, nîmes) and Blanche Loiseau (Bernard Loiseau restaurant).

A new episode of “Oui, Cheffes!” will broadcast every two weeks on Fridays, starting with the February 14th broadcast. It’s available on Spotify, Apple Podcasts, Deezer, Amazon Music, Castbox and on the Michelin Guide website.
